

John Cremer

Trainer / Presenter / Facilitator / Coach

Has worked with:

- EADS
- Academy for Chief Executives
- Bank of America
- Common Purpose
- Business Design Centre

Background

John has 20 years experience in intensive personal development work, beginning with Omega Vector in the US. He has worked as a sculptor, stand up comedian, improvised theatre actor and director. John lives in Brighton where he trains and directs the Mayday Players – the UK's sharpest improvisation company

Expertise

John is an extraordinary facilitator, describing his work as personal development disguised as comedy. He works in the moment and can take a group from laughter to deep reflection in an instant. He is an expert in the Enneagram of Human Archetypes - a tool to instantly read others at an uncanny level

Qualifications & Professional Memberships

- Professional Speakers Association Member
- Member of the Academy for Chief Executives
- Associate of the Happiness Project
- Director of the Mayday Players
- Playback Theatre Trainer and Director

Interests

Fishing to relax and experience humility, pruning of fruit trees, visiting sacred sites and ancient yew trees. Witnessing people transform their lives. Gothic cathedrals. Long walks in nature
